summer evenings may be anticipated.

New National Theatre. "The Still Alarm," an American comto be produced at the New National To be produced at the New National Theatre next week, is without doubt one of the most successful American plays ever produced in this country. For going on six years it has played to crowded houses all over the country, and has also been produced in England, where it made a great sensation, and after a long run at the Princess Theatre it had a prosperous tour through the provinces. It is said to have the most realistic scene ever put on the stage, in the way of a real steam fire engine and real horses.

the stage, in the way of a real steam fire engine and real horses.

The play has for its motif the fortunes and misfortunes of a New York fireman, and the andence is worked up to a high pitch of excitement over a scene in the Central fire station in New York, in which a very realistic showing is given of the departure of an engine to a fire. In this scene the firemen slide down the poles from their beds in an upper story; two horses rush out to the waiting engine; harnesses are dropped on their backs as borses rush out to the waiting engine; harnesses are drouped on their backs as if by magic, and the steamer is off, sputtering sparks and smoke as the highmettled steeds at a terrific gallop whirl it out of the station. Mr. Harry Lacy, an actor of excellent reputation, enacts the role of the hero fireman, Jack Monley, and is supported by an admirably balanced company. The bex sheet will open to-morrow morning.

"Struck Gas" at Harris'. One of the most humorous and excruciatingly funny farce comedies, entitled "Struck Gas," will hold the boards of Harris' Bijou Theatre all next week, and it promises to be a veritable treat for all lovers of pure and wholesome comedy. It is a piece constructed on purely laughing principles, and consists, in part, of an abundance of refreshing songs, dances, music, and specialties of the brightest and cleanest order. A company of merry players, each an artist in his or her particular line of work, infuse a deal of unadulterated and merry fun into the piece, and "Struck Gas" can well be called the king of farce comedies.

Lillian Harper is the bright particular star of the company and with her sweet singing and graceful dancing generally manages to captivate and charm an audience from beginning to end. Among the array of popular comedians are the kings 'Struck Gas," will hold the boards of array of popular comedians are the kings of comedy, Messrs. William Hugh Mack, Ed. Banker, E. H. Sailivan, Charles Edwards and a host of others equally as popular, including a bevy of charming and pretty girls. Taking all in all. "Struck Gas" ought to play a profitable wick's engagement, and laughter should preside during this attraction's stay. Hilly Lester's Big Show at Kernan's.

The champion female wrestlers, Alice Williams of Vermont and May Morgan of Ohio, with Billy Lester's Big Show, will Ohio, with Billy Lester's Big Show, will be the sensation at Kernan's theatre next week. They will contest for a purse. Billy Lester, formerly of Lester and Allen, will appear in his latest and most successful absurdity. Professor Seeman is acknowledged the world's greatest illusionist and will present his celebrated mystery entitled "Electra." Frank H. White, late of Frank and Lillian White, is an old favorite. Among others are Annie Hart, Davenport Brothers, the Highley's, Sophie Thorn, Joe Hart, Mile, Albertina, the great Hilton, Adolph, Mile, Marie and John J. Sheeban. The show is the largest and best with which Mr. Lester has been identified. Seats now on Lester has been identified. Seats now on Texarkanas, the dancing wonder, with the Henry Burlesque Company, the attraction this week, has proved the hit of the season. The company includes many bright artists. Lillian Larkelli, De Witt Sisters, Courtlandt Sisters, George H. Wood, Will West and Herbert Crowley. Ladies' matinee to morrow.

Cleveland's Colored Minstrels at the Academy.

The greatest undertaking in the history of minstrelsy is that of W. S. Cleveland. the most successful of minstrel managers, who has drawn from far and near select minstrel products to the number of 280, and formed them into four large companies. One of these very choice combinations. "Cleveland's Colossai Colored Carnival Minstrels," will visit this city shortly, and give one of their rare entertainments. This company, numbering over haif a hundred "tip-toppers," will present a neat black performance, that for refinement and impressive originality has never been equaled. The "heavy weights" are Tom McIntosh, James Bland, Billy Farrell, Will Elridge, George Tichner, Harry Eaton, Palmer and McClain, Grant and Williams and the Four Brewer Brothers, and were obtained only by the "large purse" held up for them by their clear-headed and far-seeing manager. A splendid corps of vocal artisls, dancers, specialty, performers and a superb band and orchestra, every one of whom is highly preficient in their work, complete the ensemble. They will inaugurate a new era in progressive minstrelsy, and make this winsome style of entertainment more fascinating than ever. Costumes and stage settings are furnished on the regardless-of-expense pian, while every detail of stage craft will be used in this crowning the most successful of minstrel managers. of expense plan, while every detail of stage craft will be used in this crowning achievement. The programme is arranged on the too-many-ringed circle plan. Fif-teen and twenty arises, in their difficult acts, appear simultaneously—another pleasing lemovation. EXPERIMENTAL MARRIAGE. As Said to Be Practiced in a Strange British Colony.

From the London Truth,
The Andaman Islands are used as a penal settlement for Indian and Burmese convicts, who, with the exception of a very limited aboriginal race scattered over the group, form the bulk of the popula-tion. The isolated situation of the settle-ment in the Bay of Bengal, the absence of communication by cable, the small military force maintained, and the fact that about 15,000 convicts are here resi-dent, render it necessary to endow the chief commissioner with more than the ordinary powers extended to governors. Hence the Chief Commissioner of the Andamans, who is also superintendent of Hence the Chief Commissioner of the Andamans, who is also superintendent of the convict settlement at Port Blair by virtue of the almost autocratic authority vested in him, enjoys a despotism well-nigh incredible under the British flag. Such powers being concentrated in a single individual, it may well be imagined that from time to time some rather startling revelations leak out. I only propose however, to refer for the present to on marriage customs, which have novelty, i nothing else, to recommend them. The nothing else, to recommend them. The Chief Commissioner as superintendent of the settlement in convict matrimonial matters is supreme. He is licenser, registrar, person, and witnesses rolled into one. The greater part of the life convicts, who are good characters, are "self-supporters"—that is, men out on ticket-of-leave in the settlement. These men are allowed to marry. The convict women, on the other hand, are always kept under close supervision in the female convict iall. When the "self-supporter" is troubled with hymerocal aspirations he visits the female fall and informa the overseer. The latter individual orders a parade of those women of good character who have completed four years in the island. The would-be Benedict then passes along the ranks with a view of selecting a likely helpmate. As might be expected, very cager are the faces ight be expected, very eager are the faces of loving the glances bestowed upon in as he does so. While the overseer's head is turned the

While the overseer's head is turned the women engage in every variety of pantominia efforts to display their qualifications for the peet. Should the overser absent himself for a moment, the coveted bachelor, though he be an octogenarian, is assalled on all sides with a view to his conquest. Such phrases as "Here: take me! "No, me!" "Why, she's got red balr!" "She's cross-eves!" do not make matters easier for him. At tength having suited himself, he takes by the hand the lady of his choice and leads her from the ranks. The couple are then allowed half an hour to discuss matters, after which, if they agree their names are sent in to the head office. A day or two later they attend at the Commissioner's, and are there put through an examination as to the state of their affections and their inclination to marry; but no awkward questions are ever raised concerning possible existing husbands or wives beyond the seas.

And now comes the climax. Supposing And now comes the climax. Supposing satisfactory answers have been given as to their mutual sentiments, the lady is handed over to the man—not to become his wife for better of worse, but for a seven days trial. During these seven days the lives with him, and the relationship of the pair is that of a married couple. At the expiration of the term of approval, if both are agreeable, they return to the Chief Commissioner's office and are married by that gentleman. If, on the other hand, either of them does not approve of the other, the man is left to go his way, while the woman returns to her old routine of work in the female o her old routine of work in the female bationary unions. To such infants the state assumes the responsibilities of a step-father. Born illegitimate, with the cognizance and sanction of the authorities, reared in a convict sail among the worst class of women, all of whom are life convicts, and, finally, without a relative or friend on the face of the earth, thrown into the world to make their own living, the position of these children is not pleasant to contemplate. ant to contemplate.
